

Center for Jury Studies

Guest: Richard Gabriel

Deciphering Juror Thinking

Richard Gabriel is a highly experienced trial consultant. As a Jury Talk guest he explains, among other things, how consultants act as translators to help both attorneys and judges understand that there is a fundamental difference between how judges and attorneys think that juries make decisions and how juries actually make decisions. They provide a bridge between the court lingo and procedural processes and a lay person's expectations, so that juries can fully understand evidence and make sound decisions.

Resources mentioned in this episode:

Publications

The Online Courtroom (2022)

Jury Selection Strategy and Science with Ted Donner (2014)

Acquittal (2014)

Jury Trial Innovation Round #2

Entities

The American Society of Trial Consultants, ASTC

Websites

The Online Courtroom Project

Contact Us

Host - Judge Gregory Mize (Ret.)

E-mail: gempredictions@mac.com

Phone: (202) 607-6111

Producer - Laney Snyder

E-mail: esnyder@ncsc.org

Phone: (757) 969-3684

Other Jury Resources

- Center for Jury Studies Website
- The National Center for State Courts Library ^Collection
- The e-newsletter Jur-E Bulletin